Slumping White Sox Are Again Beaten by Griffs

Shaw Does Airplane Act After Allowing One Hit, but Nationals Battle for 3-to-2 Victory

"Pants" Rowland, pilot of the hitless wonders, and the crew from the Windy City, are sure giad they do not have to linger any longer in Washington, as Clark Griffith's crack pitching staff is sure taking some of the confidence out of their pennant aspirations.

These alumping Sox failed to get their bats into working order at the Florida Avenue Stadium yesterday afternoon and the Nationals captured a great uphill battle by

Jimmy Shaw sure had Rowland's crew guessing for six and twothird innings, as one scratch bingle in the seventh session was their allotment, but visions of no-hit fame had quite an effect on the big Pittsburgh Stogie, and he went up in the air, making possible the two tallies registered by the visitors.

Doc Ayers, relief hurler, stopped their rally in this session and held them in check in the eighth, but the Old Fox used Joe Leonard as a pinch swatter in the last half of the eighth and George Du Mont, the eighth and George Du Mont, the Fargo Express, finished out the

Eddie Cicotte started the heaving

Old Fox switched to Doc Ayers, but the burden was a little too strong for the doctor's subway ball, and Murphy was passed, forcing in Felsch. Cicotte then grounded to Judge, who was retired by Ayers at first. McMullin drew a base in the eighth off Ayers, but a fast double play halted the Rowlanders, while Jack-haited the Rowlanders, while Jackson was given life in the ninth by the pass route with no one down, but he never moved farther than the first sack, as Du Mont had easy sailing with Felsch, Gandil and Risberg.

The Nationals grabbed their first tally in the second inning when Rice frew a base on balls and stole second. Miles then hit a long fly to Jackson and Sammy beat the shoe-less fielder's throw to third. Cicotte less fielder's throw to third. Cicotte then cut loose a wild heave and Rice crossed the plate.

With the count against them the Nationals staged their rally in the eighth. Leonard and Gharrity failed to deliver as pinch punchers, but Joe Judge looked over four wide ones and stole second. Shanks was then passed and Milan ripped one to right field, which tallied Judge, Shanks taking third on the play. Danforth took up the job here for Cicotte and Rice crashed one through Collins and Gandil and Shanks tallied, but Sammy allowed Danforth to catch him napping and the Nationals' run getting was over. Eddie Cicotte started the heaving for the White Hosed tribe, but Rowsland could see the famous shine-ball artist fading in the eighth and substituted Danforth, just long enough to allow the Nationals to complete a real honest-to-goodness batting rally and annex the old ball game.

The Sox went down in front of Shaw's assortment in the one, two three order for five innings, but in the sixth, after Risberg had fouled out, Schalk drew the first pass. Ray stole second and went to third when Shaw attempted to catch him napping and threw to center field, but Jimmy then tightened up on the reigns and whiffed Cicotte and Leibold.

The sevenith session was the night mare for the Pittsburgh stokie, as after McMullin had grounded out Colins was issued free transportation and stole second. Jackson them popped to Milan, but Happy Felisch could not see the south side tribe go hitless and he proceeded to knock that he got the better of the branch and stole second. Collins on the play. With one run over Shaw then started a charitable act and passed Gandil and Risbers. With a count of three and one on Murphy, who was sent in to bat for Schalk, the Old Fox switched to Doc Ayers, but the burden was a little too strong for to St. Louis when I say this, but it is a fact that the fans in the Mou City got after Marsans when he slumped with the bat, and because of his temperament he was unable to

MODIFY SYSTEM OF PAID GRID COACHES

Should Cut Down High Salaries Rather Than Eliminate Experts.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 11.-When eforms in intercollegiate football are mentioned, the first thought is of the highly paid coaches and assistant coaches. While it is true that these men fare well financialy, it would be men fare well financialy, it would be well to consider their worth before too strongly condemning them. At any rate, following a policy of mod-eration, it seems that modification would be a better remedy than com-plete elimination.

College football, as it has been played, has been a highly specialized.

played, has been a highly specialized, scientific game, and it requires no little intelligence, and, in fact, specialized knowledge, to teach it. Of course, it may seem far-fetched to pay to a construct of the coaches salaries ranging from $7.500 to $12,000 per year for four months' to 2, but dropping the final 5 to 0.

Dauss was hit hard in the opener, but Ehmke, knocked out of the box yesterday, came back in the second and held the Red Sox helpless.

THE DOUBLE CROSS

THE DOUBLE CROSS

Stuffing a sponge in a horse's nostril in order to bring about his deteat is an old trick. Two years ago at one of the winter tracks a crooked turfman approached an unscrupulous bookmaker with the information that the sponge trick would be used to beat a certain favorite. The bookmaker, eager to win sure money, raised the odds from 2 to 1 to 5 to 1 and took in all the wagers he could lay his hands on. The crooked turfman then resorted to what is known in sporting circles as "the double cross." He didn't use the sponge and had several friends make bets with the deluded layer. The horse won in a gallop and the avaricious bookmaker, who couldn't believe his eyes, was burned up to theextent of $5,000.
